Dear Colleagues,

I am pleased to share with you the new issue of UNEG’s quarterly newsletter.

On 25-27 September, Heads of States and Governments formally adopted a new sustainable development agenda and affirmed strong political commitment to its timely implementation, review and follow-up. The 2030 Agenda calls for ambitious, universal and transformative action over the next fifteen years, focusing on our shared planet, its people, and their prosperity, peace and partnership. We particularly welcome the pledge made by Member States that no one will be left behind, by realizing the human rights and sustainable development of all and achieving gender equality. In this vein, the President of China called for an historic Global Leader Meeting on Gender Equality, in which 80 Heads of State participated and committed to act.

For UNEG and the international evaluation community, it is exciting to note that “evaluation” has been integrated in this new Agenda. It indicates that, as part of the implementation of the Agenda, the follow-up and review processes will be informed by country-led evaluations and data. We believe that such evaluations can contribute powerfully towards strengthening and accelerating national development policies and programmes. We appreciate that the Agenda calls for strengthening national evaluation programmes as part of the efforts envisioned to enhance national capacity in developing countries.

We are proud to report that UNEG, with support from our partners, played a critical role in advocating the importance of evaluation during the intergovernmental negotiations for this new Agenda. This is another important milestone for UNEG and the international evaluation community, following the stand-alone United Nations General Assembly Resolution, "Capacity building for the evaluation of development activities at the country level", which was adopted in December 2014 (click for more information).

Throughout 2015, the global evaluation community has been celebrating the International Year of Evaluation with the aim of advocating and promoting evaluation and evidence-based policy-making at all levels. UNEG and its members are actively engaged in these activities. As invited by the UN General Assembly Resolution A/RES/69/237, UNEG and its members will stand ready to work in partnership with member states and other stakeholders to support, on request, country-led evaluation activities and the strengthening of national evaluation capacity.

This is an historic opportunity for all of us. Let all of us, evaluators and policy makers from the United Nations, Governments, Civil Society Organizations, including Voluntary Organizations for Professional Evaluation, Parliamentarians and private sector, join hands to make evaluation fit for the 2030 Sustainable development agenda, including by ensuring evaluation will be equity-focused and gender-responsive to make the 'no one left behind' promise, a reality.

Marco Segone
UNEG Chair

Evaluation Fit for 2030 Agenda

On the occasion of the adoption of the 2030 Agenda, UNEG issued a public statement on “Evaluation fit for the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda: A Commitment by Evaluators”. It also sent letters to highlight the role of evaluation in the new Agenda to the Permanent Missions of Members States in New York, Heads of UN Agencies, and the UN Resident Coordinators.

In addition, UNEG is working with UNDG and UN DESA to integrate evaluation in the “UNDG Guidance Note on Supporting the Tailoring of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development to National Contexts”, and the UN Quadrennial Comprehensive Policy Review (QCPR) report. Consultations with Parliamentarians

Consultation with East Asian Parliamentarians in Strengthening Evaluation Function in National Development Agenda and Consultation with Latin American Parliamentarians in Strengthening Evaluation Function in Post Development Agenda took place in August in Bangkok, Thailand, and in September in Panama City, respectively. The consultations were organized under the partnership of the Parliamentarians Forum for Development Evaluation, UNICEF, UN Women, EvalPartners and other organizations.

For additional information on the Consultation with East Asian Parliamentarians, please contact Ada Ocampo aocampo@unicef.org or Yumiko Kanemitsu yumiko.kanemitsu@unwomen.org.

For additional information on the Consultation with Latin American Parliamentarians, please contact Ada Ocampo aocampo@unicef.org or Laura Gonzalez laura.gonzalez@unwomen.org.

The Swiss Evaluation Society (SEVAL) and the Geneva Evaluation Network (GEN) held their first-ever joint conference on 3-4 September. The Conference examined the independence of evaluation in practice. Moreover, on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the Parliamentary Control of the Administration – the evaluation service of the Swiss Parliament – attendees addressed the question of the institutional independence of evaluation services. Participants also looked at the bigger picture, examining the status of the independence of evaluation in Switzerland in an international perspective.

The OECD, UNESCO, European and French Evaluation Societies joined hands in organising an event to discuss the use of evaluation within the context of the current challenges. The purpose of the event was to bring together decision makers and evaluators, the demand and the supply sides of evaluation, to discuss the use and impact of evaluation itself and how this could be improved.

Fourth International Conference on National Evaluation Capacities (NEC) (26-30 October, Bangkok, Thailand)
The Fourth International Conference on National Evaluation Capacities (NEC) took place in Bangkok, Thailand from 26 -30 October. This event was organized by the Independent Evaluation Office (IEO) of UNDP in partnership with the Royal Thai Government. The conference was conducted in parallel and jointly organized with the 2015 International Development Evaluation Association (IDEAS) Global Assembly. Many UNEG colleagues attended the conference. Marco Segone, UNEG Chair, delivered a keynote speech.

The theme of the conference this year was Blending Evaluation Principles with Development Practices to Change People’s Lives. The conference focused on how governments can develop the necessary national evaluation capacities to evaluate sustainable human development. Discussions deliberated on future priorities for a post-2015 global evaluation agenda to support the implementation of the up-coming Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

The goal of the NEC Conferences was to support the development of national evaluation capacity, by focusing on supporting the governments with which UNDP works with around the world. In partnership with a host government, NEC Conferences are held by the IEO in a new region every two years. The conferences are also a part of a broader architecture, in which UNEG plays a significant role by bringing together UN agencies and development partners to collaborate with each other and enhance the understanding and appreciation of evaluation as a powerful tool of public accountability and learning.

The dialogue on NEC can be followed on social media with #NECbangkok.

Enhancing the evaluability of Sustainable Development Goal 2 (SDG2): "End hunger, achieve food security and improved nutrition and promote sustainable agriculture" - Technical seminar jointly organized by the evaluation offices of FAO, IFAD, WFP and CGIAR
GOAL 2

END HUNGER, ACHIEVE FOOD SECURITY AND IMPROVED NUTRITION AND PROMOTE SUSTAINABLE AGRICULTURE

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS
More at sustainabledevelopment.un.org/sdgsproposal
In the context of the initiatives for the International Year of Evaluation, the evaluation offices of the Rome-based agencies, which include, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD), the World Food Programme (WFP) and the CGIAR (formerly known as the Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research) are jointly organizing a technical seminar entitled “Enhancing the evaluability of Sustainable Development Goal 2: End hunger, achieve food security and improved nutrition and promote sustainable agriculture”, which will take place on 17-18 November 2015 at IFAD Headquarters, in Rome. This seminar is also part of the efforts of the UNEG Strategic Objective 3 (SO3) on system-wide initiatives. Its results will feed into the work of the SDGs working group under UNEG SO3.

The organization of this seminar is p UNEG Strategic Objective 3 The objective of the seminar is to contribute to a shared understanding of how SDG2 could be evaluated and identify actions needed to enable evaluations of SDG2 through the United Nations system, other international organizations or countries themselves. Specific objectives of the seminar are to: (i) share lessons learned on the evaluability of the MDGs and other partnership initiatives of similar scale (for example the Paris Declaration); (ii) jointly review key challenges for evaluation in relation to the post-2015 development agenda in general and SDG2 in particular; and (iii) identify concrete steps for RBAs towards building evaluability of SDG2.

The seminar will allow opening forward-looking discussions around four themes:

1: The relevance of 'new metrics' for the evaluation of SDG2 — data revolution and innovative approaches for capturing qualitative dimensions of human wellbeing
2: Partnerships and development actors — dealing with the increasing complexity of development processes and partnerships
3: National M&E systems and data availability — building on the progress made and addressing existing (capacity) gaps
4: Demand for and use of evidence from evaluation — understanding the political economy of evidence and developing a joint evaluation agenda for SDG2.

Following the addition of PAHO (member) and UNITAR (observer) to UNEG earlier this year, the Monitoring and Evaluation Unit of the UN Interregional Crime and Justice Research Institute (UNICRI) was recently granted UNEG membership. This decision was made on a no-objection basis by UNEG Heads. Ms. Itziar Arispe is representing UNICRI at UNEG as a UNEG Head.

2016 Evaluation Week Preparation

The 2016 Evaluation Week will take place from 25 to 29 April 2016, in Geneva, Switzerland. The main theme will be “Evaluation Fit for the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development: no one left behind”. The organizing committees developed draft concept notes for the High-level event and the Evaluation Practice Exchange (EPE). The invitations to potential speakers for the high-level event have been sent out. Further details on Evaluation Week 2016 may be found at www.unevaluation.org/2016_UNEG_EvalWeek.

UNEG Webinars

This event was organized in partnership with The International Initiative for Impact Evaluation (3ie). Martina Vojtkova from 3iE introduced an Evidence Gap Map and useful findings.

The International Initiative for Impact Evaluation (3ie), recently unveiled an Evidence Gap Map detailing what evidence exists on the effectiveness of productive safety net programs and where more evaluations are needed. Evidence gap maps are a new interactive tool that consolidates what we know about “what works” in particular sectors by mapping out evidence from systematic reviews and impact evaluations. The Evidence gap map of productive safety nets focuses on interventions that can help people sustainably escape poverty. It was commissioned by USAID with the aim to inform poverty eradication programming post 2015. The aim of the Evidence Gap Map is to enable policy-makers and practitioners to explore the findings of existing evidence on productive safety nets, facilitate evidence-based decision-making, and inform strategic research commissioning. Policymakers can easily choose focus areas such as social protection, financial services, and microenterprise support and interactively explore what evidence is available on their effects on 14 different poverty-related outcome categories.

Challenges to Evaluators’ Independence (8 October 2015)

This event was organized in partnership with the UNDP Independent Evaluation Office (IEO). Fritz Sager is a professor of political science at the Centre for Public Management, University of Bern, Switzerland. He presented findings and reflections emanating from a survey of evaluators in Switzerland and other countries - regarding being subjected to influence or put under pressure in their evaluation work. For that study, Professor Sager was awarded the “PRIX Seval” at the annual congress of the Swiss Evaluation Association held in September 2015.

Webinar Discussion and Launch of the TRANSFORM Issue #5: "What have we learned from evaluations of corporate gender mainstreaming?" (22 October 2015)
This event was organized by the UNEG Working Group on Gender Equality and Human Rights in partnership with UN Women Independent Evaluation Office and the Coordination Division in collaboration. Representatives from UN Women, WFP, OHCHR, UNDP and NORAD discussed their experience on the one hand from an institutional perspective with gender mainstreaming and on the other hand evaluating such efforts. It was composed of two sessions. Session I focused on the insights, conclusions and ways forward for Corporate Gender Equality Policies based on the UN Women review of evaluations of these policies (see the Transform magazine). Session II focused on how to enhance learning from evaluations of corporate gender equality policies based on the UN Women review and UNDP and NORAD’s evaluations of their respective corporate gender equality policies.
